THE RESETTLEMENT OF INDOCHINESE REFUGEES IN THE UNITED STATES: A SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY

This bibliography includes a substantial selection of the most current resource and reference materials presently available on the domestic resettlement of Indochinese refugees within the United States. It lists materials from a wide variety of sources, including books, journal articles, government reports, Congressional hearings, and various published and unpublished documents by individuals and private agencies. The aim of this bibliography is to aid the reader in gaining entry into the subject matter; it is a selected resource, and hence does not attempt to include all materials on the subject.

The focus of this bibliography is on the recent resettlement within the United States of refugees from Indochina. Hence, materials covering other areas of related concern -- such as the worldwide refugee situation, the resettlement of other refugee populations, or general works on the historical, sociological, or legal aspects of refugee studies -- have as a rule been omitted. Individuals desiring to pursue these (and many additional) avenues of concern will find the following two bibliographies extremely helpful:

1. "Refugee Research Bibliography," by Dr. Barry N. Stein, Professor of Social Science, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan. Professor Stein's 35 page annotated bibliography lists more than 275 sources, including general historical works, sources on theory, definition, and classification, and materials on such areas as persecution; flight; asylum; legal issues; refugee politics and policies; resettlement; adjustment and assimilation; mental health; children; and agencies involved in the refugee field.

Professor Stein's bibliography is soon to be published by the United Nation High Commissioner for Refugees, Geneva.

2. "Refugees: A Selected Bibliography," included in the report Refugee Resettlement in the U.S.: Time For A New Focus, by Julia Vadala Taft, David S. North, and David A. Ford (published by the New TransCentury Foundation, Washington, D.C., in July, 1979.) This 16 page bibliography is a byproduct of the report to which it is appended -- a review of U.S. refugee and resettlement policies and practices over the last twenty-five years. It is organized under the following subject headings: Refugees - general; Hungarian refugees; Cuban refugees; Indochinese refugees; Soviet refugees; Chilean refugees; and International refugee issues.

Refugee Resettlement in the U.S.: Time for a New Focus may be ordered from New TransCentury Foundation, 1789 Columbia Road, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009.

In addition to these two bibliographies, we have listed below -- in section (1) -- a number of other bibliographies which readers will find helpful in pursuing avenues of interest and concern related to refugee resettlement.

This bibliography is divided into the following sixteen subject areas:

(1) Bibliographies

(2) Camps in Southeast Asia

(3) Domestic Resettlement of Indochinese Refugees--General

(4) Legal Aspects of Refugee Status in the U.S.

(5) Socio-Economic Studies of the Indochinese Refugee Population in the U.S.

(6) Social/Cultural Adjustment

(7) Orientation of Refugees to American Life

(8) Orientation of Sponsors, Social Service Providers, and Teachers

(9) Language Acquisition

(10) Physical Health Care Needs

(11) Emotional and Mental Health

(12) Vocational/Occupational Adaptation

(13) Housing Needs

(14) Needs of Refugee Children and Youth

(15) Refugees in the U.S. -- General

(16) Relevant Periodicals

(1) Bibliographies

This section includes a number of relevant bibliographies in addition to the two referred to in the introduction above. The reader should also note that a number of specialized bibliographies, focusing primarily on English-as-a-second language (ESL) and bilingual education materials, are listed in the Language Acquisition section of this bibliography.
